

Newsletter: Sunday 29th November 2020

Dear All,

I am sure you feel there is good news with the production of Anti-COVID vaccines; even though Christmas will be restricted in terms of Masses and Gatherings, we can look forward to Easter being more normal!

I am attaching a copy of the programme I devised for the Oscott College Students last week. Fr Stan Nwanunobi, Chaplain to the Nigerian Community and Fr Rony Kurian George, Chaplain to the Syro-Malabar Community, joined me for the occasion. We were very well received, and it was good to see students there from Nigeria and Kerala.

I have been in touch with Archbishop Bernard regarding my plan to have sessions on Catechetics with you, and he advised me to be in touch with Dr Birute Briiliute at Maryvale to see who might be able to assist us there. I have now made contact with Birute and she is taking it to the staff.

I am attaching my Reflection/Homily for the First Week of Advent. I hope it may be of assistance as you prepare for Sunday. Also, it will be part of the Burning Bush VOLG on Our Lady of Good Counsel Ethnic Chaplaincies Website from tomorrow, Friday.

Please keep in your prayers people in Nigeria, Eritrea, and Cameroon; all are having political problems at this time. I find Aid to the Church in Need very helpful when it comes to how we might support; on Red Wednesday, yesterday, they had an interesting programme "Set Your Captives Free" that you might like to access.

With prayers and all good wishes,

Mgr Daniel McHugh

26th November 2020

Monsignor Daniel McHugh

Co-ordinator for Ethnic Chaplaincies in the Archdiocese
